Mothers Minder® Reminder Bracelets

An exciting new product for parents now available in Australia

The Revolutionary Mother Minder® REMINDER BRACELET is the World's first patented bracelet that helps Mums and Dads remember the routine activities of their baby. This fashionable and durable silicone wristband works by positioning the slider on the number or dot representing the time of the activity. Each dot indicates 15 minutes. Use the Reminder Bracelet to:

Track feeds

To track when you last fed your baby, position the slider on the time of the feed. When baby becomes unsettled, refer to the bracelet to remember when the last feed was. You will quickly be able to assess and address the needs of your baby, thus reducing stress for both you and your baby.

For breast feeding mothers: simply place the bracelet on the wrist that corresponds to the breast that you last finished nursing. For your next feed, refer to the bracelet to identify which breast to offer your baby first, start nursing there, then switch breasts and place the bracelet on the other wrist.

Track nap schedule

To track nap times, move the slider until it lands on the time that your baby started napping. When your baby wakes from the nap, reset the slide to note when he or she got up. If your baby starts crying in the middle of a nap you can refer to the bracelet and know that your baby has not finished napping and should fall back to sleep. When your baby has been awake for a couple hours and gets fussy, you can refer to your bracelet and know he or she must be tired and ready for a sleep.

Remember medication

When you give your child their medication, adjust the slider around the bracelet, leaving it on the current time. This will help you remember when they last took their medication. Just like a string around your finger, it also reminds you to administer their next dose.

The Mothers Minder® REMINDER BRACELET is easy to use, fashionable, safe as there are no small or detachable parts to be a choking hazard, waterproof and priced to sell at $7.95ea (RRP). Every mother or mother to be will want one – or two! Not to mention grandparents and carers.
